Happy Half Term

Wow - what an 8 weeks it has been! We are so proud of all the children at Walsgrave and how well they have settled back into a new school year. We hope that you have a good week off and are able to enjoy some family time. We look forward to welcoming everyone back on Monday 3rd November.

Sharing a book with your child is one of the best ways to help them learn and grow. Just ten minutes a day makes a real difference.

- Make it part of your routine – bedtime is great, but any time works.
- Chat about the story – ask what they think or which bit they liked best.
- Let them choose – storybooks, comics or magazines all count.
- Show you love reading too – children copy what they see.

Most of all, keep it fun. Snuggle up, enjoy the story, and make reading something to look forward to every day.

Black History Month Concert at Bluecoat

Mrs Collins took our Walsgrave choir to Bluecoat to take part in celebrating Black History Month. The children had the opportunity to perform and watch other performers. They were fabulous!
